

TRIBUTE OF SCHLEY TO VIRGINIA'S SONS

In Notable Address at the Exposition He Extols Virtues of the Colonists.

THIS FITZHUGH LEE DAY

Large Crowd Expected from Richmond and Other Places.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, Va., November 25.—Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, of the United States Navy, and Adjutant-General George W. Davis, of the United States Army, were the guests of honor to-day at the Jamestown Exposition, when Army and Navy Day was celebrated with appropriate exercises.

Admiral Schley was given an ovation such as seldom falls to the lot of men. His journey around the grounds called for a series of ovations, and in the Auditorium Building, where the exercises were held, the large crowd sprang to their feet to greet the distinguished officer when he made his appearance on the stage with the exposition officials, and reported the performance, cheering for three minutes, when he was introduced by President Harry St. George Tucker in a brief eulogistic address.

Given Continuous Ovation.

But these welcomes to Admiral Schley were not one whit greater than the ovation given him during the course of his address, where he declared that at the foundation of the stability and greatness of the American nation was the righteousness of its people and the love they bore their sturdy forefathers, who suffered to give the people liberty and a free, happy nation; that the United States to-day, powerful and staunch, with a happy people and contented people, was the answer to the prayers of those who landed at Jamestown and Plymouth Rock to found a country—a free country.

Admiral Schley received a second tremendous ovation when he declared that from an intimate knowledge of the men in the army and navy, officers and privates, did not love war because it was their calling or vocation, but that duty and right, and that they preferred peace. He paid a glowing tribute to the men who contributed so much to make this nation loved at home and respected abroad.

Tribute to Virginians.

His tribute to Virginia was eloquent and scholarly. As he recounted the great men who claimed the Old Dominion as their home, beginning at Washington and coming down to Lee, Jackson and Fitzhugh Lee, he closed by declaring that the great tercentennial, if it stood for nothing else, spoke of the enlightened progress of the nation founded and maintained in the right spirit of its devout forefathers.

Admiral Schley and Adjutant Davis were met on arrival by President Harry St. George Tucker, Director-General Martin and other officials of the exposition. They were escorted to the Auditorium Building, in front of which, on Raleigh Square, the United States troops, infantry, cavalry and artillery were reviewed. The parade was an imposing sight, touched with devotion as the officers and spectators bared their heads to the dipping of the Stars and Stripes. Following the review, picked men from the infantrymen gave an exhibition to the music of the band, a novel and interesting sight, that won the applause of all.

Exercises at Auditorium.

President Tucker presided over the Auditorium exercises. He briefly in opening the exercises, referred to the unselfish labors of Admiral Harrington, Colonel Reads and the other Army and Navy officers, to make the exposition a success. He declared that it was a service that Virginians would never forget.

He spoke in the highest terms of Pres-

RHEUMATISM BODY RACKED WITH PAIN

No other disease causes such wide-spread suffering as Rheumatism. It is a nerve racking torture, and so thoroughly does it dominate the system, when it becomes entrenched in the blood, that its victims are usually complete slaves to pain. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood brought on by stomach troubles, weak kidneys, indigestion, and a sluggish condition of the system. The natural refuse of the body, instead of passing off through the ordinary channels of waste, is left to sour and ferment in the system because of these irregularities, forming uric acid which is absorbed into the blood, and Rheumatism gets a foothold. As the blood circulates through the body it deposits the acid, irritating substances with which it is saturated, into the different muscles, nerves, tissues and bones. Sharp, biting pains commence, the flesh becomes feverish, swollen and tender, the muscles and joints throb and jerk, and the body is literally racked with pain. Plasters, blisters, liniments, etc., can never cure the disease; they relieve the pain, perhaps, temporarily, but do not reach the trouble, which is in the blood. S. S. S. is the proper treatment for Rheumatism. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, and by driving out the poison and acid fluids which are causing the pain, and strengthening and enriching the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.

ident Roosevelt, declaring that he had not only been a considerable chief executive, but a true friend to the Virginians behind the enterprise known as the tercentennial, doing everything to assist in making their undertaking a success.

Lieutenant-Governor Ellyson, in behalf of Virginia, welcomed the visitors to the exposition, and following in the footsteps of President Tucker, declared that the officers of the Army and Navy had done invaluable service in making the exposition a success. He declared that if their duties on the field were performed with the same fidelity, intelligence and consecration that the country would ever remain safe from its enemies. He declared that their kindness would never be forgotten.

Admiral Schley's Speech.

President Tucker introduced Admiral Schley in an eloquent tribute, declaring that it was not necessary for him to recount the deeds of the hero of Santiago, who had written his name across the naval history of the last forty years, to make him known—that his deeds are history, known to all who say they are Americans.

Admiral Schley paid high tribute to the exposition; made a plea for the exhibition, its practice by the Virginians to whose accomplishments the exposition was dedicated, and asserted the humanity and kindness of the men and the officers of the armies and navies of the world.

"I compliment the management of the exposition," he said, "for its earnest work, for its high purpose, and for its accomplishment in providing an exposition in every way worthy of the nation, of the State, and of the ideas which actuated its creation. They have done well."

He urged that the nation, learning the great object-lesson of the exposition, "should renew its fealty to the simple life and resolves of the colonists." "No nation can endure long," he asserted, "which forgets its duty to God, where the faith of the fathers is laid aside in the struggle for temporary gain. This is the lesson that the exposition emphasizes: That the basic foundation of the nation's greatness was laid in the virtuous lives, the simple resolves and primitive habits of the early settlers of Jamestown, who, with the Bible in one hand and the bow of God in their hearts, respected law and liberty.

"We who believe in the efficacy of prayer believe that the prosperity and happiness to-day of the American people, unequalled in all the world, is the answer to the prayers of the early colonists. It is with this thought uppermost in mind that I come from a neighboring State, across the Potomac, to pay a tribute of acknowledgment to the Virginia of John Smith, George Washington, Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, R. E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson and many others of the sons who have made this great Commonwealth."

No Threat for War.

In paying his tribute to the personnel of the Army and Navy, Admiral Schley declared that the men being trained to fight made them threat for war. "On the contrary," he declared, "all over the world the men and officers of the Army and Navy are uniformly humane and universally kind."

Adjutant-General Davis followed in the oration of the day, holding the undivided attention of the audience. He spoke of the Army and Navy, its future, and the importance of it to the greatness and stability of the nation. The band of the Twenty-third Infantry furnished the music, closing the exercises with the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The distinguished visitors were entertained at luncheon by the officers of the exposition company. They were quartered in the Virginia Building, as guests of the State during their visit. Admiral Schley will remain over at the exposition to-morrow, and be present at the Fitzhugh Lee memorial service.

THIS FITZHUGH LEE DAY.

To Be Made Most Notable Day of Exposition's Closing Week.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, Va., November 25.—Richmonders are expected to take the leading part to-morrow in the event scheduled for the day, a memorial to General Fitzhugh Lee, "the hero of two wars." Mr. Joseph Bryan, of Richmond, will preside over the exercises in the auditorium, while Major Robert W. Hunter, of Richmond, will be the orator of the day, delivering an eulogy on the life of General Lee. It is expected that hundreds of Richmonders will grace the occasion by their presence.

The day promises to be the biggest of the entire week, and is anticipated with pleasure by thousands in Norfolk and Portsmouth. The feeling is general that the Jamestown Exposition owes a debt of gratitude to General Fitzhugh Lee, who spent the closing days of his life in making the tercentennial a national affair, that will never be repaid, and that a tribute to his memory is as little as could be done.

The exercises in the Auditorium will be simple, but impressive and affecting. The Elly Italian Band, one of the best-musical organizations that has visited the exposition, will furnish the musical program. While President Harry St. George Tucker and Lieutenant-Governor Ellyson will make brief addresses of welcome, the feature will be the address of Major Hunter, and the exercises will be turned over to Mr. Bryan, who will preside.

Dinner to Officers.

The officials of the Jamestown Exposition company will give a dinner Wednesday evening at the Marine Restaurant in honor of the United States Commissioners, United States officers and State and foreign commissioners at the tercentennial. Among the prominent guests who will attend are Admiral Schley, Admiral Barry, Harrington, R. D. Grant, Colonel George F. Harrison and Hon. W. M. Geddes. It will be the farewell social function of the exposition.

To Be Good Week.

Throughout the day there will be special events to interest and entertain the visitors. Band concerts, religious and parades of the troops have been arranged for. During the afternoon and evening the Richmond visitors will be shown social attentions.

With a bright outlook for good weather, although a cold grip, the exposition officials are confident that the closing week will be full of interest and enthusiasm, and that a large attendance will be recorded. The large attendance yesterday and Monday is usually a poor sign, looked upon as an excellent beginning. The special features of the week are:

National Thanksgiving celebration Thursday, interdenominational, with addresses by Bishop Galloway, Rabbi Calish, of Richmond, and the Rev. W. W. Moore, also of Richmond. An excellent program of music has been arranged for the occasion.

Closing Day, Saturday, promises to be of especial interest, as in addition to the closing exercises, Children's Day will be celebrated.

A movement is on foot to make the remaining days of the week especially arranged for children, and that an invitation be extended to the poor children of the entire State to visit the show free of charge. The movement is being carried out by the children of the State, and the children collected by interested women, and chaplained over the big show. The movement will probably go through. The closing week is also being observed, and the climax will be on Friday, known as Chrysanthemum Day. Thousands of the beautiful flowers are on exhibit from Norfolk, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. It is understood that Richmond florists will enter exhibits to-day and to-morrow.

Male Members Qualified to Take Part in Legally Authorized Meeting.

OTHER PETERSBURG NEWS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETERSBURG, Va., November 25.—Fifty men on the contested list of male members of the Harrison Street Baptist Church, colored, were to-day present to be in good standing at the examination of nearly 200 before the Rev. Dr. John M. Pilcher, special commissioner, appointed by the Hastings Court to adjust the troubles in the congregation resulting from the quarrel between the friends and opponents of Eli Tartt, the pastor who recently resigned.

Dr. Pilcher proposes to hold a congregational meeting at the church next Monday night for the final settlement of the long-standing troubles. Only men will be admitted to the meeting, and the doctor is attempting to compile a correct list of the male members from very incomplete records, which necessitate the proving of the membership of those whose standing is contested. The membership of about 800 is admitted, and to-day's work finished the contested list. R. B. Davis and Paul Pettit, counsel for the Tartt faction, and Bernard Mann and J. M. Townsend, representing the anti-Tartt members, took part in the examination in the Corporation Court room to-day, which occupied five hours.

He will leave with his family for Salisbury, Md., the headquarters of the Eastern Shore District, during the latter part of this week.

WANT NEW CIRCUIT ALL TO THEMSELVES

Move to Have One Embrace

Newport News and Three

Counties.

HENRICO WITH CHARLES CITY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., November 25.—Members of the local bar have started a movement looking to the formation of a new judicial circuit, to include Warwick, York and Elizabeth City counties and the city of Newport News. This is a result of the effort which Henrico county is said to be making to be removed from the Richmond circuit.

In the event that Henrico is removed from the Richmond circuit, it is proposed to introduce a bill in the Legislature placing that county in the circuit now presided over by Judge Tyler, which includes James City, Charles City and New Kent counties and the city of Williamsburg. York and Warwick counties are now in Judge Tyler's circuit, but the addition of Henrico county would give this circuit a population of about 55,000 without York and Warwick. Under the proposed readjustment Accomac and Northampton, with a population of about 55,000, would be one circuit, presided over by Judge Blackstone.

At present Judge Blackstone's circuit includes the Eastern Shore counties and Elizabeth City county and the city of Newport News. With the Eastern Shore as one circuit, Newport News and the counties of York, Warwick and Elizabeth City would be left for a new circuit.

The proposed new arrangement seems to meet with the approval of everybody in this section. Elizabeth City county especially would be benefited, as the litigation in this county makes a monthly session of court very desirable, and this is impossible under present conditions.

It is the wish of Henrico county, which would have a judge close at hand to deal with it first-hand.

Already there is a candidate for the proposed new judgeship. W. J. Nelms, a member of the firm of Nelms & McManis, and one of the best known members of the Newport News bar, has announced that he will be an applicant for the office in the event the new circuit is established.
